Screening Test and Frequency

Women who are 50 to 69 years are recommended to go for a screening mammogram once every two years.

Post Screening

Follow up with a medical healthcare professional who can help:

- Explain the screening results to you
- Determine the appropriate follow-up based on your results
- Explain the costs (if any) and other claims you are entitled to, such as Medisave and Medishield Life.

Breast Cancer is the most common cancer among women in Singapore.1

Screening Trends

According to the Singapore Cancer Registry, Annual Registry Report, Trends in Cancer Incidence in Singapore 2010-2014:

- 1,850 women are newly diagnosed with breast cancer
- 400 die from the disease.3

5 Women aged 40 to 49 years old are advised to talk to their doctor about the benefits and limitations of mammograms in this age group so that they can make an informed choice about going for screening. If you decide to get screened, you should go for a screening mammogram once a year until you are 50.

The chances of surviving breast cancer increases with early detection.
